OCTOBER HIGHWAY DEATH TOLL 27

with 27 highway fatalities are threatened the October death toll of 1955 when 28 persons killed. In spite of this extraordinary death toll we are able to report a 7% decrease in fatalities the state over the 18 months ending October 31st.

It is interesting to note the tremendous volumes of traffic apparently guarantee a heavy of life. The return to Standard together with the fewer hours daylight in autumn seem to be principal factors. Visibility contributed much to the high number of the month in view of the fact that nearly one-half of the accidents suffered occurred at night. Hazardous road conditions accounted for but two factors.

An analysis of the 27 fatalities indicated that eight deaths were chargeable to miscellaneous unusual causes, four to immersion, and one to drunkenness. In addition to the distribution above:

and leads all other causes. Persons so classified having been 28% of the total, does not include children while counting or playing in or driving is next in order 26% of all causes and the classification of drunkenness and "under the influence" is in third place with a total of Fatalities seem to be abnormally distributed between occupants and non-occupants of motor vehicles.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

On this week, Thursday, Albany is having a little extra celebration. The Library Association is having a supper before its annual meeting and also a program of games in the evening. We have heard they had a good time with some games after the last Circle.

Also on Thursday evening the East Stoneham people will have a Circle Supper, and we understand the supper is to be followed by a Family Social for those who would like to stay and have a good time. The same kind of a program will be carried out at Center Lovell on Friday evening. Plenty to eat, a good Community Sing, and then games for all. We believe we can make these evenings together very friendly, pleasant and profitable.

Another big event for Friday evening! Mr. Charles Stone of Long Branch, N. J., is going to speak to the Men's Club. This meeting will be held at North Waterford. Just notice this change. The meeting will be held at 7:30, and the "eats" will come later in the evening. Mr. Stone, who is to speak, has been Superintendent of Schools at Long Branch, N. J. He has recently resigned to give more of his time to a work in the schools in interest of International Peace. All will want to be on hand Friday evening. You know when we touch on these subjects plenty of good discussion follows.

On Sunday we will have our usual services, with the thought of Armistice Day pervading them. The Young People in the evening are invited to Norway for a Rally. They are asked to bring with them a lunch and be at Norway at six p. m. There will be a social hour followed by the service beginning at 7:30. Many in the Parish might like to go over to hear the speaker of the evening, who is Paul Douglass. He is speaking for the Emergency Peace Campaign, and is a man with a message we all ought to hear.

There is "plenty doing" next week. On Monday evening some of us will be wanting to go to Bryant Pond, where the recently organized County Council for recreation will hold its first meeting. Tuesday night will bring us once again to North Waterford for a Circle Supper. Haven't eaten there for some time; you'll want to be around! Thursday evening we'll be traveling toward Hunt's Corner for another of those friendly evenings. On Friday evening there will be a Young People's Social at Waterford. Will you also be sure to remember the fourth meeting of the Training School will be held on Wednesday evening. These are immensely worth while evenings, and please come if possible.

The Red Cross workers will be looking for your membership dues within the next few days. Just remember that this is a good way to help unfortunate folks, at home, and elsewhere.

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

Services Sunday morning at 10:45.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 8.

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness:—So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them:—But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground, and the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Genesis 1: 26 to 27, also Genesis 2: 6-7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man reflects God; mankind represents the Adam race, and is a humanity and infinite Principle become man, not a divine creation. Did the finite deity, that He should now be called Jehovah? With a single command, Mind had made man, both male and female. How then could a material organization become the basis of man?" (Page 525: 4-6; Page 524: 17-20).

AMERICAN SHIPS IDLE AT NEW YORK DOCKS

Cardinal Departs for Rome

Detroit, Mich. Although his visit to this country was declared to have no bearing on the issue coincident with the departure of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State and the highest Roman Catholic dignitary ever to visit the U. S., Father Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest and bitter opponent of President Roosevelt, announced the abandonment of his radio address and dissolution of his Union for Social Justice Monarchs on a Visit.

ONE POLI CAME THROUGH

New York City Out of the welter of straw votes and destruction of political prophets, one nation-wide poll came out victorious. Two weeks before election Dr. George C. Wallace, American Institute of Public Opinion announced that President Roosevelt would carry 49 states and 477 electoral votes. It also pointed out that if the trend continued the President might carry every state but Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, with a total electoral vote of 519. The Institute's predictions and big corps of lobbyists are said to be geared to meet any question of national leadership in 60 days.

News that the State of New Jersey has just set aside the sum of $2,000,000 for advertising and publicity recalls the story of the rooster whose domicile abutted that of a family of ostriches.

One day, so the story goes, an ostrich egg rolled under the high board fence into the rooster's yard. Crowing loudly, the rooster assembled his family of hens together and pointing to the ostrich egg said: "Girls, I don't want to complain about the work you have been turning out, but I just want you to see what some of the neighbors are doing."

I think that here in Maine we should look around and see what some of the neighbors are doing.

It goes without saying that the New Jersey campaign, particularly if it centers to any degree around agriculture will affect Maine farmers.

Over in Canada, they spent approximately the same amount this year in advertising that New Jersey has appropriated. Michigan, Wisconsin, and other states that are in the same business of selling farm products or recreation are spending large amounts which will directly affect us unless we meet the challenge.

What is the answer? How will we meet the threat to our agriculturalists and to the army of our people who are benefitted by our recreational business?

Obviously, with the $75,000 we are spending to advertise the recreational advantages of the state and the $25,000 we are spending on agriculture, we stand but little chance of stemming the rising tide.

This coming Legislature will be called upon to solve many grave problems. Millions of dollars of new revenue must be found. This can only mean that you and I and all the rest of us will be called upon to assume more tax burdens.

How are we to assume this new burden? The only possible answer is that we must somehow make more money than we are making now. The farmer will have to sell more farm products. The commercial fisherman must find a better market for his catches. The business man, both large and small, must find new revenue so that he can continue to employ men and women at good living wages.

Let us assume for the moment that instead of a State that this is a business concern. How would such a concern meet a new tax obligation and at the same time continue to make money?

Undoubtedly such a concern would advertise heavily. It would make consumers everywhere conscious that their product was far better than that of a competitor. The natural result would be that this concern would do a greater volume of business and would not only be able to meet the new taxes but would make more money than previously. On the other hand, if it had done nothing it would have been enmeshed in a web of steadily diminishing profits that would mean eventual bankruptcy.

There is no refuting the proven fact that money used in wise advertising is not an expenditure but is an investment. In this case we buy only advertised goods.

No more graphic example of this can be cited than that of cigarettes, a commodity that is doubtlessly more highly advertised than any other.

If you smoke cigarettes or pipe tobacco or cigars for that matter, you will find that you smoke a product that is highly advertised in preference to one that is not advertised.

Tobacco officials can tell you almost to a package how many cigarettes they will sell for a specific sum of money allotted to advertising. They will also tell you that if they stop advertising even for a month, that their sales will drop off proportionately.

The same applies to everything we use—to the foods we eat, the clothes we wear, the transportation we buy, the recreations we indulge in.

Spending money for advertising our state and the products we raise or manufacture is not predicated on a fine theory. It is based on hard cold facts. Our farmers, our fishermen, our manufacturers, those engaged in the recreational business, can increase their incomes immeasurably if their work is backed by advertising. This is proven beyond all possibilities of doubt by the past history of advertising in this and other states.

A political cartoon titled "TAXES" depicting the burden of taxation on the cost of living. A man is shown struggling to carry a large, heavy sack labeled "HIGH COST OF LIVING" down a steep, rocky hill. Above him, numerous large stones or boulders are falling, each labeled with a different type of tax: INCOME TAX, TOBACCO TAX, SALES TAX, GASOLINE TAX, AMUSEMENT TAX, PROPERTY TAX, LUXURY TAX, and CORPORATION SURPLUS TAX. The falling stones represent the various taxes that contribute to the overall cost of living. A small sign at the bottom of the hill reads "OVER", suggesting the man is overwhelmed by the weight of the sack and the falling taxes.

Mr. Chapman was born in Gile in 1912, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Chapman. He was educated at his home town, the schools of Gile Cove, N. Y., and at Gould Academy where he was prominent in chess, athletics and winter sports as a varsity track. Graduating from Gould in 1932, he entered the University of Maine the following year in the agricultural course. At the university he won his numerous track and was a member of Sigma Nu. He is secretary-treasurer of the New England Hereford Breeder's Association.

Receiving his B. S. degree in June, he became tester for the newly organized Oxford County Hereford Improvement Association. This association includes the owners of 23 herds in Oxford County and surrounding counties and Mr. Chapman is making a wide circle of friends in his new work.

Now that the election is in Washington is beginning to pry crystal gazer trying to figure out what will happen to come the laws will either are ready in a of amendment or already in tested.

Near the top of the screaming is the Social Security, which played such a big part in clearing campaign arguments. Each of the major candidates in the major candidates were opposed to social security. The only difference was how it should be ruled.

Significantly many of those drafted the national act held the new amendment. Others who capable of long range judgment have that eventually the act will be changed that it will hardly resemble the present law.

It is most encouraging to know that a considerable share in the work of the center is being done by the students who have been selected for the purpose of the investigation. * As this column has pointed out before, many of the great leaders of 1956 were tactically unaffected by the outcome of the election, and will be among the great leaders of 1960 and succeeding years. One of these leaders is pointed by the news and history will praise by the late Congress. That will come to the great time of discussion in the next week of the late campaign will be a high speaker of discussion in a short very particular one of the late state defending it.

It is very possible that the present legislative session will be the last Congress in which widely distributed support for this bill is to be expected. In the next Congress, and will have the support of the members of both parties, and of upper industrial circles, though they may continue the practice of the tariff and the general protectionists that it was hardly expected to be a compromise between the two camps. The tariff protectionists have been the stronger party and have been in effect made so following the tariff of the general tariff vote in 1902. will be close to $140,000,000. At when the top figure is reached, it anticipated that $300,000,000 year will flow in.

And here is where one of the issues appears. Estimates say that of age insurance reserves which must under the law be retained in the Federal government and invested in government bonds will be $140,000,000. This debt as it is now has piled out must be reduced by another $100,000,000 every 10 years to provide enough margin for the treatment of old age

Wentz jetties all of according to the representative in that case the law Congress could legally require the money for other purposes in other words it is morally but not legally bound to honor bonds for the prolonging of it is not an irreparable damage occurring since in 1939 it could pay the bonds paid up and the world would be contributing in comparison with the employer part of the debt for a government to accept a financially independent and a world out of debt.

Among the outstanding features of the program during the forenoon were the reports of extension work for the past year by the leaders, greetings from the Farm Bureau Federation by President Frank Day of Lisbon Falls, an explanation of the plan for organizing the outstanding farmers' homemakers by Wilson C. Buckfield. In connection with these remarks Mr. Conant gave a recognition to E. Chandler of Fryeburg who was honored by the University of Maine last year.

George Lord, Assistant Director of the Extension Service, presided on this plan for giving recognition for outstanding leaders. He told how it was looked upon throughout the state and the

NEW ENGLAND PREPARES FOR WINTER SPORTS

Today New England mountain villages are bustling with preparations to welcome a host of visitors from Boston, New York and elsewhere. With thousands of enthusiasts invading the snow territory each week-end, winter sports are coming to be looked upon almost as a major industry of this section. Writing in the November issue of Yankee Magazine, A. Ritchie Low, discusses the financial side of the business and offers some sound advice to communities which are seeking their share of winter sports income.

"Winter sports enthusiasts are migratory," says Mr. Low. "One week-end may find a group of Bostonians up in northern Vermont, the next one may find them in New Hampshire, Maine, or the Berkshires. Because of this angle those who are making a bid for this business will eventually get their share of it." For this reason especially he feels that while there is always room for friendly rivalry, there is none for petty jealousy and friction between towns, regions, or states. He believes that it is up to every community to help develop the business by giving the visitors a good time.

Suppose a town decides to enter the winter sports business. What are some of the main points to be kept in mind? On this subject Mr. Low quotes Franklin P. Graham of New Brunswick, who is regarded as the father of the winter sports movement in Lamontville, County where thousands visit between the summer and the fall of each year. Mr. Graham believes that expenses should be kept to a minimum. "Don't take advantage of people by overcharging," he said. "Towns that attract a reputation for fair prices are the ones which will eventually stay in the winter sports business." To supplement existing housing facilities Mr. Graham suggested that the overnight cabins which are to be found in most communities can be made available for winter use.

Those who keep guests overnight, he added, should see that there is plenty of hot water and provide good, substantial, plain meals. He regards publicity as highly important and pointed out that the railroads which operate snow trains will cooperate in every possible way.

For every skier, according to Mr. Low, there are ten snowshoers, tobogganers and skating enthusiasts. He urges each community to concentrate on the sport most suitable to its own topography.

Mr. Low scents the notion that most winter sports enthusiasts are well-to-do. "The truth is," he says, "that most of them are white collar workers and factory hands who work on a five-day schedule and have their week ends free; a hand-to-mouth existence in the great majority come on the snow trains, the low fares making it possible for even the small salaried class to make the trip."

Mr. Low estimates that those who spend four or five days engaging in winter sports usually spend about $2000. Almost everybody gets a share of the money; the fellow at the garage, the people who run a restaurant, the little widow who keeps the corner tea room, the chap who operates the men's furnishing shop the druggist and the side hill farmers who supply the villages with eggs, butter, and milk.

At several New England hotel proprietors asked when they made their latest bank deposits, four replied, "Washington's Birthday. One of them added, with a twinkle in his eye, "Yes a few more good winters and I can afford to close up during the summer." Mr. Low claims that the winter sports industry has already been instrumental in keeping more than one community out of the red.

600 POTATO GROWERS REQUEST NEW BOOKLET

Almost 600 potato growers in Aroostock county have requested copies of the new potato sales book offered by the University of Maine Extension Service this fall, according to county agent Verne C. Beverly. More than 3000 bin record cards have also been distributed.

This response indicates, Extension Service economists say, that many growers recognize the booklet as a handy aid in taking the guess-work out of potato receipts and shrinkage. The record 1 sales of value in the event of fire, or as a basis for regular reports of potatoes in storage, are required with some insurance policies.

Other counties in which growers have requested copies of the new book are Penobscot, Piscataquis, Waldo, Oxford. Although the first-year demand for the record book far exceeded expectations, copies are still available. Requests should be made to the county extension agents.

DEERING LAUDS RURAL PRESS FOR FARM NEWS

The county weekly in Maine, by presenting timely scientific information, has saved the farmers of Maine thousands of dollars each year, says Arthur L. Deering, director of the University of Maine Extension Service.

Through the press, thousands of readers are reached quickly, he points out, whereas a speaker or a letter-writer can reach only a few hundreds.

It often happens, Director Deering says, that those who read regularly the agricultural news in their papers are able to modify their practices so as to meet the many difficult situations confronting the farmer.

Because the county paper is read thoroughly and regularly, he looks upon the rural press as one of the greatest aids to agricultural advancement.

Experiments of the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate that whey, a by-product of cheese manufacturing, usually disposed of as waste, may soon be used commercially in canned soups, fruit-flavored whips, and ice-cream mixes.

Philmore Meserve from Auburn was the recent guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Tyler. Mr. and Mrs. James Goodrich and daughter Lois from Portsmouth, N. H., were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitman and sons.

James Munt had a severe attack of asthma early Monday morning and was attended by a physician three times during the day.

Mrs. Clayton Mills and little daughter Marie from Bethel village were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Munt for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Tyler were in Norway on business one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Whitman and son Robert are soon closing their home here and moving to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maddock's residence for the winter, the same that they occupied last year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Barnard returned to their home at Bellows Falls, Vt., one day last week after a very pleasant vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Tyler.

Alfred Penlee having closed his house is staying at Newry Corner for the winter.

Mrs. J. Burton Abbott and Miss Ellen Chamberlain visited relatives and friends at East Bethel for a few days last week.

Richard, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Waterhouse, is in the Children's Hospital at Springfield, Mass., for surgery.

Howard, another small boy in the same family, is ill with chicken pox.

Mrs. Mary Mills from North Albany was the guest of Mrs. Fred Munt, Tuesday.

Orvis Grover and friend from Errol, N. H., were at this place one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Silver and son Roy, from Gorham, were week end guests at Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Munt's.

WORLD'S LONGEST OVER-WATER SPAN OPENS

This week marks the official opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, a project costing $77,500,000, crossing more than four miles of water separating San Francisco from the mainland. Next Spring the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge will open up vehicular traffic to the North.

CONDEMNATION OF LAND—TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

WHEREAS, the undersigned Highway Commission of the State of Maine, on the 27th day of October, A. D. 1936, acting under the provisions of Chapter 28 of the Revised Statutes of Maine, in our official capacity aforesaid hereby certify that public exigency requires the altering and widening of the Highway "S" in the town of Woodstock, County of Oxford and State of Maine over the following areas, to wit:

Beginning at a point in or near the center of the present traveled way of State Highway "S" leading from South Paris to Bethel, said point being located about six hundred (600) feet distant southeasterly from Herman E. Billings house and being designated as Station 4+00; as shown on a Proposed Relocation Plan—State Highway "S", dated October 1936, on file in the office of the State Highway Commission and to be recorded with the Registry of Deeds of Oxford County; thence south forty degrees fifty minutes west (N. 40° 50' W.) a distance of one thousand one hundred ninety-three and eighty-eight hundredths (1193.88) feet to Station 11+93.88; thence southeasterly by a six (6) degree curve to the left a distance of four hundred fourteen and forty-four hundredths (414.44) feet to Station 13+08.32; thence south seventy-seven degrees thirty-two minutes west (N. 77° 32' W.) a distance of forty-one and sixty-eight hundredths (41.68) feet to station 18+50; whence a point in the center of the present traveled way of State Highway "S".

Above is intended to describe the survey base line of State Highway "S" as shown on the plan referred to, for which a right of way south and location as shown on the plan is required across the lands of Herman E. Billings, Oscar F. Trask and the present located away.

Noting for said purposes of the above described lot of land is hereby to wit:

Lot of Herman E. Billings certain lot or parcel of land situated in the town of Woodstock, County of Oxford and State of Maine, bounded and described as follows to wit:

Beginning at a point in the present southeasterly right of way line of State Highway "S" leading from South Paris to Bethel said point being thirty-three (33) feet distant southeasterly from and at right angles to the survey base line at Station 0+00; thence southeasterly by said southeasterly right of way line about six hundred (600) feet to point which is thirty-three (33) feet distant north from and at right angles to the survey base line at Station 0+00; thence south forty degrees fifty minutes east (S. 40° 50' E.) parallel to and thirty-three (33) feet distant northeasterly from the survey base line about eighty-eight hundredths (88.88) feet to a point which is at right angles to the survey base line at Station 4+00; thence south thirty-seven degrees thirty-two minutes east (S. 37° 32' E.) fifty-two and sixty-eight hundredths (52.68) feet to a point which is fifty (50) feet distant northeasterly from and

Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars

Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proven Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

Unisteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-steel, all-wood body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Syncro-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost feature all models of both series.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

The Men's Club had a good meeting at North Waterford last Friday. Charles Stone of Long Branch, N. J., gave us a helpful talk on the Enduring Satisfaction of Life. At this meeting a committee was appointed to arrange for a Father and Son Banquet, during the Christmas holidays.

Sunday evening a number of young people from the Parish went to Norway. They carried their lunch and the young people of the Norway Congregational Church furnished coffee. The Methodist and Universalist Churches of Norway were also represented in the group. A hymn singing around the piano preceded the evening service. The message on "The Cost of Peace," given by Clayton Douglas, was most timely and interesting. Judging from the manner of speaking we should judge that Dr. Douglas exemplified his subject in his own life. It is a good thing for us to remember in our desire for peace that we must live peace at home.

After this week there is one more session of the Training School. We hope that some who have not been able to come earlier may be present for these last two sessions. From all reports they have been most helpful gatherings.

Thursday night of this week following the Circle Supper at the Williams House the annual meeting of the United Parish will be held. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and reports given of the work during the past year, together with plans for the future.

The Young People's Social at the Williams House on Friday evening promises a good time for those who will come together. Those from the eighth grade and up are having a very good time for the most part. We thought in this and hoped that we could approach the Thanksgiving season with a very happy and successful one.

On Wednesday evening the 11th we will have the closing session of the Young People's Social. Then we shall have a double session of the Circle on Thursday evening there will be a Circle at East Stoneham and Albany. On Friday evening the roads will lead to Center Lovell and to Waterford. The Circle at Waterford will be a special occasion, indeed, as it is the Annual Gathering in memory of Miss Wilkins. Happy are we to recall her whose helpful and inspiring spirit continues to live in the building bearing her name, as in so many ways it serves the needs of the Community. Her birthday, which we observe on Friday evening, is on the 23rd of November. Just keep these dates for next week in mind, and you will find some pleasant people with whom you may gather for a purposeful evening.

A week from Sunday will be Thanksgiving Sunday in the Parish. How much we have for which to give thanks, and our thank offerings should help many who lack so much that we enjoy.

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

Services Sunday morning at 10:45.

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, November 15.

The Golden Text is: "If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." (Romans 8:13, 16).

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy; and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly." (1 Corinthians 15:48).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Mortals are the counterfeits of the immortals. They are the children of the wicked one, of the one evil which declares that man begins as just or as a material embryo."

Testimonial meetings at 7:30 p. m. on the second Wednesday of each month until May.
